Deborah Fine

“For this Hudson Grace installation, I have curated a collection of my works that evoke feelings of positivity and fit seamlessly into multiple environments. From paintings entitled "Snow Day" to "Summer Vacation", "Pirouette" to "Pewter Mist", my hope is that this series will transport viewers to a place of happiness and tranquility in their homes.” - Deborah Fine.

Deborah Fine is known for her minimalist style, featured in collections from New York City to Los Angeles. Fine's distinctive aesthetic is often showcased in a unique grid format, effortlessly transcending spatial boundaries. She launched her career at Condé Nast honing her appreciation for high aesthetic standards at magazines including Vogue, Glamour, and Vanity Fair. Inspired by photographers such as Slim Aarons and George Hoyningen-Huene, as well as the floral compositions of Paul Lange, Fine's work seamlessly weaves the bold, distinctive brush stroke reminiscent of Cy Twombly and Angles Martin. Working from her studios in Princeton and East Hampton, her unique exploration of line, shape, and color beautifully intersects with fashion, design, and fine art, creating a captivating blend of sophistication and contemporary thought.
